♠[Talents Information]♠

Skills: incredible eye coordination skills. She can track a ping pong ball moving back and fourth at a high speed with intransigence concentration and no distractions.

Hobbies: Sleeping, wrestling, and she's a knitter

Equipment: A dadao is carried on her back, and she has a necklace around her neck that's from her homeland.

Abilities/Magic: she has powerful ankles, and can turn like a cat pretty quickly

Ability 1 :After image: this ability lets her cloak herself in invisibility, and leave behind an afterimage for a single turn. This costs a 3 turn cooldown before it can be used again. the invisibility lasts a single turn

Ability 2 : electrical breathing: control over her own breathing allows her to run heavy waves of static electricity over her body, and through her sword. This allows her to condense it into a point to fire a close range beam of lightning (4 turn cd), or to use it as a quick boost in her legs to increase her own ability to leap and jump for a single jump (4 turn CD). Leaving the static on her body causes her hair to fluff up. The lightning bolt is pretty thick, it's visible like a beam. It's only 9ft in range, it pushes people back, and it will leave a pretty sick burn on the skin on the place it hits. the beam is as large as a fist. The strike of lightning lasts a single turn and the leap only goes 15ft

Weaknesses:.. Her venomous claws do not have a lot of venom in them, the only thing they do is slow down the healing process of small wounds in the long term, making it harder to recover from fights with her. Her abilities lack defensive properties which makes her a glass canon of sorts. She also doesn't have a lot of ranged fighting tactics. She's a glass canon, and her abilities don't have a lot of defensive use.

♠[Background]♠

Xuebao grew up in the woods as a wild hunter. She never had family, she was just simply raised by wolves, you know, like a normal completely wild human being. She was brought back into society by some overeager scientists, but once it became obvious that there was nothing worth studying about her, she ended up just joining the kingdom as a knight. She barely even realizes that she's alive, so she wants to find a purpose in life, besides killing that is.
